

WORSE AGAIN.

The President had Another Relapse Yesterday.

But is Better this Morning.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22, 8:20 a. m.—The president has not vomited since yesterday afternoon. This morning he has twice asked for and received a small quantity of liquid nourishment by the mouth. He slept more quietly during the night. This morning his general condition is more encouraging than when last bulletins were issued. Pulse 104, temperature 98, respiration 18.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22, 12:30 p. m.—The president continued this morning to retain nourishment taken by the mouth as well as by enema. No recurrence of vomiting. Parotid swelling not materially smaller, but is painless. Pulse 104; temperature 98.1; respiration 18.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22, 12:30 p. m.—The president continues to do well. He is taking liquid food by the mouth in increased quantity and with a relish. Nutritive enemata are still successfully given, but at longer intervals. His pulse is now 107, temperature 98.4, and respiration 18. At the morning dressing the wound was looking well, and the pus discharged was of a healthy character. After the operation of August 8, a flexible tube to wash out the wound at each dressing readily followed the track of the ball to the depth of three and a half to four inches. At the dressings, however, a small quantity of healthy pus came, as was believed, from the part of the track beyond this point, either spontaneously or after gentle pressure over the interior surface of the iliac region, but this deeper part of the track was not reached by the tube until yesterday morning when a separation of slough permitted it to pass undisturbed downward and forward for a distance of twelve and one-half inches from the external surface of the last incision. This facilitates the drainage and cleansing of the deeper parts of the wound, but has not been followed by any increase of the quantity of pus discharged. The large pus cavity which had formed in the immediate vicinity of the broken rib is filling up with healthy granulations, and the original entrance of wound as far as that cavity has healed.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22, 10:30 p. m.—In an interview with representatives of the press, Bliss said Dr. Hamilton thought the end of the tube, when inserted twelve and one-half inches, reached about three inches of reaching the ball, and the intervening space had healed. In his (Bliss's) opinion, the distance from the end of the tube to the ball was not so great.

Dr. Bliss emphatically denied the report that the president was troubled with bed sores, and said that the president has not on his body a single sore, swelling or abrasion of any kind, with the exception of the swelling under the ear, caused by the inflammation of the parotid, and the wounds in the back caused by the bullet and knife.

The inflammation of the parotid has not, he said, diminished much since yesterday. The swelling of the surrounding parts has subsided, so that the expression is again natural, but the gland itself is still troublesome. Scattering applications of collodion and iodoform have been used, but it is impossible yet to say if suppuration can be prevented. Meantime the patient suffers somewhat from stiffness of the jaw, and the accumulation of phlegm in his throat. The fever in his opinion is not of an intermittent type, and not influenced by malaria. Concluding, Dr. Bliss said the whole question of the future of the president's case depends now upon the stomach. If it can receive and assimilate food enough to supply the present drain upon the system, and enable the patient to regain strength, he will stand a chance of recovery. On the contrary, if it becomes intolerant of nourishment and refuses for any length of time to receive food, the consequences may be fatal. At present the indications are that the stomach is recovering tone, and upon this fact, he said, we base our hopeful anticipations.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, Aug. 20, 11 p. m.—In reviewing the president's case to-day, the most that can fairly be said is that there has been a very slight change for the better. The pulse and temperature are a little higher than last night, but this trifling increase of fever, which is attributed to the inflammation of the parotid, is counterbalanced by the improvement in the tone of the stomach upon which so much now depends. The president has taken to-day about one-third more food than yesterday, including thirteen ounces of milk gruel, with flour, about twenty-three ounces of koumiss, and a small quantity of beef juice. He had also an enema of twenty-five ounces of beef extract mixed with the yolk of an egg. There has been no recurrence of nausea or symptom of gastric disturbance. The patient went to sleep soon after the examination, and slept for an hour or two. When he awoke another enema was administered, after which, at 10:15 p. m. he again fell asleep. The fever has subsided within the past two hours, and at present the pulse and temperature are lower than at the evening examination. The surgeons ran up the day by saying there is a slight change for the better in the direction of greater ability to receive and assimilate nourishment, and the outlook to night is favorable.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, Aug. 21.—The day at the mansion has been extremely quiet, and until early in the afternoon nothing could be ascertained regarding the president except what information the official bulletins contained. About 1 o'clock Dr. Bliss entered Secretary Brown's room apparently worn out. When asked the cause of his weariness, he replied that he had but little rest during the night, as the president was quite wakeful.

Shortly after the interview with Dr. Bliss, Dr. Boynton was asked if he considered the president decidedly better to day than yesterday. "No," replied the doctor, "he is not decidedly better. I think there is a slight improvement as compared with yesterday, and feel more encouraged."

Continuing the conversation, the doctor said in substance that if the irritation of the parotid passes away without suppuration, he will feel much relieved. He thinks the patient is taking sufficient nourishment to build up on, and, barring further complications, he considers the outlook as a little more encouraging. The doctor was asked if he thought the president's condition was better than yesterday. "No," replied the doctor, "he is not decidedly better. I think there is a slight improvement as compared with yesterday, and feel more encouraged."

"What is the nature of the injury feared from suppuration of the gland?" In reply, the doctor said: "It is impossible to say where it would end and should suppuration set in; that it would be possible for the inflammation to extend to the interior of the ear and destroy that organ. It might seriously affect the bones of the face in the vicinity of the irritation, and further than that there might be danger of the impure matter gathered about the gland, penetrating the brain, and in addition to these risks it would be a considerable tax on the little strength the president has left. The doctor considered the glandular complication the most serious feature of the case at the present time.

Since the issuance of the evening bulletin the scenes at the mansion and on the streets have materially changed. The announcement of the president's having vomited twice this afternoon created great uneasiness throughout the city, and people are gathered about the bulletin boards in an excited manner. At the mansion there was a noticeable feeling of apprehension, but the statement of the attending surgeons that the vomiting was not occasioned by gastric disturbances of the stomach has been accepted as less serious than if that organ had refused to perform its functions.

This is the explanation of the vomiting given by Dr. Bliss. It appears, contrary to the impressions which prevailed up to 6 o'clock, that there was vomiting during the afternoon. At that time the patient experienced considerable difficulty with phlegm, which had been secreted in the throat, and exertion to raise it excited the stomach to such an extent that vomiting ensued. This was some time after the last portion of nourishment had been naturally administered, so the theory that it was caused by phlegm in the throat is very generally accepted.

Dr. Boynton in conversation this evening states that the president has taken no nourishment since the first vomiting. He says further that the president's stomach is weaker to-day than it was yesterday, and that while the case looks rather discouraging to-night, he hopes and has reason to believe that the morning will bring an improvement. "If it does not," the doctor said, "I shall feel very much discouraged and extremely anxious."

"Do you think, doctor, that the president has septicemia?" "Yes, in my opinion he has been under the influence of septicemia for ten days past. I think to-morrow will bring a favorable change, however. If it does not, there will be cause for alarm."

After the vomiting occurred the president asked Dr. Boynton, having noticed the attending surgeons conferring in monotone, what he thought of his condition. The doctor made an encouraging reply, and the patient seemed perfectly satisfied. Soon after this he fell asleep. Dr. Reyburn, during the course of an interview at a late hour to-night, said the patient had taken water this evening and retained it. The doctor said that the patient was still sleeping quietly. His pulse remains about 108. On the whole to-day has not been considered as favorable as yesterday.

There is a general disposition here to take a gloomy view of the case. The marked reticence of the surgeons and attendants of the president to-night tends to increase this feeling. They have remained shut up in the rooms near the president, except that two or three attendants passed through the private secretary's office, but they would not say anything about the case. Efforts to get even a word from Dr. Agnew failed. He declined being seen, or to send any message as to his opinion.

Many referring inquirers to the bulletin. Whenever the president appears to be doing well, it is not difficult to see the surgeons and attendants. To-night all the members of the cabinet met at the white house and they have remained close in the cabinet room. There is a significant quiet prevailing at the white house. The countenances of the inmates indicate a feeling of uneasiness, to say the least. The fear is prevalent that the president is too weak to be nourished much longer by enemata, although Dr. Bliss says that this method has so far proved successful; that the president really gains some strength from it.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—From the best information to be had here, there is no truth in the report that Vice President Arthur contemplates resigning upon assuming the presidential duties. The matter is a delicate one, and the course of the vice president since the shooting of President Garfield has been of a character to warrant that he would take no part in the contemplation of such a plan unless first endorsed by the members of the present cabinet. The cabinet, it is also known, has made no such recommendation, statements to the contrary, notwithstanding, and all statements heretofore published on the subject are pure fabrications. It was represented that Postmaster General James had agreed to sustain Arthur in assuming the duties of president, but the postmaster general said to-day: "You may state positively, for me, that I have neither been consulted about the matter, nor have I considered it."

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—The following was sent to-night to Lowell, Minister, London: "The president's sleep last night was broken and unsteady. His symptoms throughout the day have been less favorable, and his general condition is not encouraging. He is unable to retain food on his stomach, having vomited twice during the afternoon, the last time at 5 o'clock. This evening he has been able to drink water and retain it. The swelling of the parotid gland has not increased. The pulse and temperature are about the same as yesterday. His sleep up to this hour (11 p. m.) has been somewhat disturbed, and we are all deeply anxious." (Signed) BLISS, Secretary.

BEARDSTOWN, ILL., Aug. 21.—Two brothers, Charles and John Voratz, had a difficulty here this evening resulting in the shooting of Charles with a revolver, the shot in the opinion of the physicians, entering the bowels. The trouble was about women. The wounded man will probably die. John was arrested and lodged in jail.

Some poet has said that "All torments of the damned we find in only three, Oh Jealousy, thy tyrant of the mind." This is grandly sweeping and magnificently inaccurate. Any sufferer from indigestion knows to the contrary. Indigestion, the villain of the tragedy played among the gastric juices of the stomach, and does double discount the horrors of jealousy. Jealousy is often an attendant upon the latter, and when indigestion is removed this jealous companion of a deranged liver flies. TARTARUM is the best known remedy extant for impaired digestion, deranged liver, and diseases of the bowels and kidneys.

MONDAY EVENING, AUGUST 21, 1891.

ANOTHER RELAPSE.

Yesterday, and the tone of the Washington dispatches is decidedly gloomy, though to-day's bulletins put a somewhat more favorable phase on the matter. The doctors now allege that yesterday's vomiting was caused by the glandular swelling, and the noon bulletin to-day announces that this has not materially diminished. While we all continue to hope for the best, it is evident that the ground upon which to base that hope is narrower even than it was a week ago.

The attempt to create a prejudice against Vice-President Arthur, which was begun by certain reckless newspapers immediately after the shooting of the president and abandoned soon afterwards, has been revived by the same parties, just as there appears to be a renewed probability of his being called to the presidency. This time it takes the shape of reported consultations at the vice president's house, between Gen. Arthur and certain leading stalwarts. Inquiry has developed the fact that these "consultations" were never held, save in the imagination of those pharisaical politicians who ostentatiously claim to be possessors of all the virtues and purity now existing on the earth. Vice-President Arthur has been placed in a position most delicate and embarrassing to a man of his sensitive temperament, and he has conducted himself throughout these trying weeks with a degree of decorum that has forced even from many of his bitterest enemies reluctant words of commendation. The treatment he has received from a portion of the press and public has been simply brutal, and such as would disgrace the most benighted heathen in the dominions of King Tenebris. It is a blot upon our boasted civilization, and ought to consign its perpetrators to the deepest infamy. Let us be just to him whom Secretary Blaine feelingly alluded to as "the saddest man in America," and accord to him at least the possession of common sense and of the ordinary feelings which control men in times of great public calamity. The news of to-day with reference to the condition of our suffering chief magistrate makes it more than possible that he may soon pass away from the scenes of life, and great as that calamity would be to the country, it would be infinitely augmented if we were not to accord to his constitutional successor that respect which is always due to his high office, and to which he is also entitled by reason of his unquestioned personal integrity and the record of a life unstained by scandal.

The New York Herald thus winds up a long editorial on Vice President Arthur:

If Mr. Arthur should become president we believe he will make no changes in the Administration; he will make no removals from office at large except for cause; will attempt no change in the policy or in the personnel of the present Administration; for to do so would be to do any of these things would be to invite ruin upon his own head. We believe he would quietly take up the reins as they fall from Gen. Garfield's hands. No doubt the present cabinet and probably some of the other important officers of the government will offer him their resignations. This would be a proper course for them to pursue. But we are equally certain that Mr. Arthur will at once ask them to continue in office, and it will be their highest duty to the country to do so. If Mr. Garfield should unhappily die, there will be no extra session of congress; there will be no cabinet change; there will be no new policies attempted; but the country will go on and the public business will go on just as before. There is now no occasion for alarm.

Now the Panic Begins.

Banker Thompson at the Niagara Falls.

Early one morning the active managers of three of the New York City banks were invited to the office of Jay Cooke & Co. We are informed that $1,000,000 were necessary by 10 o'clock to save that house from protest. "What security do you offer?" was asked. Answer, None; our securities are all used. It is needless to say the million was not forthcoming. We left in fifteen minutes Wall street was in a panic, and this is only a duplicate of what occurred in 1857, when the Ohio Insurance and Trust company suspended.

It is the opinion of the Chicago Times that a railroad war of unprecedented magnitude looms up on the horizon.

An agreement was made last year that the Burlington road should abstain from building to Denver and the Wash and Union Pacific should keep out of the Nebraska and Iowa territory of the Burlington. Since that date the Wash and Union Pacific has made its entry into Des Moines, and Gould is arranging to extend the Missouri Pacific to Omaha.

The result of several conferences at the Burlington headquarters was a notice to the Gould lines that the compact was dissolved by bad faith. Gould then threatened to run the Missouri, Kansas and Texas road into Chicago by a parallel line from Quincy. Next came the Santa Fe road with a protest against the extension of the Burlington track into Denver. Another frobrand was a movement by Gould toward an alliance of the Atchison, Texas Pacific, and Union Pacific interests against the Central and Southern Pacific. President Huntington then pledged himself to extend the Central Pacific to Yankton, should Gould carry out his plans. The latest scheme is one for an alliance between the Burlington, Rio Grande and Central Pacific roads against Gould and his co-partners, for which negotiations are said to be in progress. The Rock Island and Northwestern roads have each a large interest in the Denver traffic, and must take sides in the controversy.

The President's Mother.

Captain Henry, marshal of the District of Columbia, and an intimate friend of the president, who has just returned from Ohio, and has spent a good deal of time with Mrs. Garfield, the president's mother, says of her:

"The president's mother has shown wonderful fortitude in this matter. She has never lost faith in her son's recovery, has never given up hope. She does not canvass the subject at all; she puts the faith of a true Christian woman in God's mercy and goodness, and awaits the result without impatience. She has never said a word about Guiteau, and has never uttered a word in regard to the crime, or spoken of the penalty that ought to be meted out to the man who had so cruelly wronged her son."

"She was very proud of the letter written to her by the president the other day, and has shown it to every one who called. She had not heard of this relapse when I came away, and she was, therefore, much more hopeful than she is probably at this time. Judge Pardee and I drove over to see her a few days ago, and she expressed then a firm belief that James was on the road to recovery. She has a great many visitors, rather more than she ought under the present conditions to have, but everybody in that section knows Grandma Garfield, and all come to see her."

Defaced Silver Coins—Putting a Stop to Punching.

An abuse has grown up of late, especially in the west, that the treasury department will devise some means to discourage at an early day. It appears that many persons engaged in trade have established a custom of punching holes in fractional coins. It is believed that they take in the pieces in perfect condition, punch out a small portion, and pass them again. To such an extent is this abuse practiced in some localities that the banks have made complaint and have adopted measures to check it by establishing rates of discount for defaced coins. The custom is to allow but 5 cents for the punched 10-cent pieces, 15 to 20 cents for the quarters, and about 40 cents for the half dollars. The treasury department will probably advise the public to refuse these coins whenever offered to them, as the most effectual means of stopping this species of vandalism. Any person may refuse to take a coin with a hole punched in it on the ground that its value is not what it was when issued and stamped by the government.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Dr. Boynton, who came out of the president's room at 3:30 this afternoon, said to an associated press reporter, there is no truth in the report that the object of introducing the tube into the wound to such a depth was for the purpose of reaching for a supposed pus accumulation. While washing out the wound yesterday, the surgeons found there was no longer any resistance to the presence of the tube, and they therefore let it go in as far as it would, and to a depth of eleven inches, and afterwards twelve inches. Healthy pus is never absorbed and cannot be absorbed, consequently there can be no foundation to the theory that the depth of the wound would indicate that the pus had been absorbed. The introduction of the tube to so great a depth gives no further evidence as to the location of the ball. The tube was a flexible rubber catheter used in washing out the wound, and one could tell in a general way the direction which it took through the body; that the direction was forward and downward to the lowest point in the anterior wall of the abdomen where the ball has always been supposed to lie. Nothing new was ascertained. The surgeons think it possible that the ball has moved downward since it first lodged in the abdominal walls. It is not certain. They regard this opening up of the wound as favorable. It is better to have a wound open throughout than closed or obstructed in the middle. It can now be gotten at and cleaned thoroughly. In fact, this recent exploration shows no unfavorable symptoms, but to the contrary. The president swallowed about three teaspoonfuls of beefsteak juice to-day, and has also taken more milk gruel this afternoon.

The swelling of the parotid gland is only half size and is slowly diminishing.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22, 12:30 p. m.—The president continues to do well. He is taking liquid food by the mouth in increased quantity and with a relish. Nutritive enemata are still successfully given, but at longer intervals. His pulse is now 107, temperature 98.4, and respiration 18. At the morning dressing the wound was looking well, and the pus discharged was of a healthy character. After the operation of August 8, a flexible tube to wash out the wound at each dressing readily followed the track of the ball to the depth of three and a half to four inches. At the dressings, however, a small quantity of healthy pus came, as was believed, from the part of the track beyond this point, either spontaneously or after gentle pressure over the interior surface of the iliac region, but this deeper part of the track was not reached by the tube until yesterday morning when a separation of slough permitted it to pass undisturbed downward and forward for a distance of twelve and one-half inches from the external surface of the last incision. This facilitates the drainage and cleansing of the deeper parts of the wound, but has not been followed by any increase of the quantity of pus discharged. The large pus cavity which had formed in the immediate vicinity of the broken rib is filling up with healthy granulations, and the original entrance of wound as far as that cavity has healed.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22, 10:30 p. m.—In an interview with representatives of the press, Bliss said Dr. Hamilton thought the end of the tube, when inserted twelve and one-half inches, reached about three inches of reaching the ball, and the intervening space had healed. In his (Bliss's) opinion, the distance from the end of the tube to the ball was not so great.

Dr. Bliss emphatically denied the report that the president was troubled with bed sores, and said that the president has not on his body a single sore, swelling or abrasion of any kind, with the exception of the swelling under the ear, caused by the inflammation of the parotid, and the wounds in the back caused by the bullet and knife.

Scattering applications of collodion and iodoform have been used, but it is impossible yet to say if suppuration can be prevented. Meantime the patient suffers somewhat from stiffness of the jaw, and the accumulation of phlegm in his throat. The fever in his opinion is not of an intermittent type, and not influenced by malaria. Concluding, Dr. Bliss said the whole question of the future of the president's case depends now upon the stomach. If it can receive and assimilate food enough to supply the present drain upon the system, and enable the patient to regain strength, he will stand a chance of recovery. On the contrary, if it becomes intolerant of nourishment and refuses for any length of time to receive food, the consequences may be fatal. YOUNG FLENN, who made a deadly assault on George Shoemaker, is reported to be somewhere on the Chicago & Alton road, in the vicinity of St. Louis.

THERE was a splendid take of seats this morning for the opera next Wednesday evening.

TWO ladies of the 1st Methodist church living in the third ward met this afternoon to make arrangements for their festival next Thursday night. As no fee will be charged for admission, there will undoubtedly be a large attendance.

"For she had been there before"—after

Poe, a long ways—

Once upon an evening dimly,

I gave her a kiss passionately;

And called her name, "Lillian,"

Previous name I loved of yore.

Ah! she was a darling creature,

But, begad, you could not touch her,

For she had been there before.

And only murmured, "Dance me more."

THE news from Washington this morning was not very encouraging. The interest in the President's condition is again general. Many of our citizens believe that he cannot recover, and they are prepared to hear the worst.

WE are informed on good authority that the 1st Methodist church of this city

SECRETARY G. O. KALE sends the premium list for the 21st St. Louis Fair, which will begin on Monday, Oct. 2d, and continue until the 8th. The premiums foot up $30,000, and all railroads and steamboats have agreed to carry passengers and freight to the fair at reduced rates. The great dog show of the St.

Louis Kennel Club will be held Oct. 4th to the 7th. The famed Velled Prophets will reappear to celebrate their fourth annual festival, the nocturnal pageant of inconceivable richness and beauty, on Tuesday evening, Oct. 4th, and of course

representatives from Decatur will be there to gaze upon the entrancing spectacle.

THE route of the Acme Opera Company, which opens the season at the Opera House next Wednesday evening, is as follows: Peoria, 23d; Bloomington, 23d;

Decatur, 24th; Springfield, 25th and 26th;

and Quincy, 28th. The following week will be played in St. Louis. At that point the troupe will be joined by Miss

Delmar, who will alternate the principal roles with Miss Randall and Miss Elmer.

William Carlton will leave the troupe and sing in "Patience" at the Standard Theater, New York, commencing Sept. 5th.—

Mark Smith has been engaged to sing his role in the Acme Opera Company.

THE chances are that another attempt will be made to-morrow to secure another continuance in the case of the City vs

Boston and Kitchen. Anna's health is said to have improved, and she is now able to move about with her accustomed celerity; but Amanda is now ill, and has been for several days. Some of her friends are in a measure alarmed about her, and feel certain that she will not be able to appear when the case is called up for trial to-morrow. There promises to be another warm fight between the opposing attorneys.

REV. G. W. Kent, of Peoria, filled his appointment at the Universalist church in this city on Sunday and preached two interesting sermons. Rev. Kent is now in charge of a large congregation at Peoria, and is very popular with his people.

DR. GOODWIN took his last collection for this conference yesterday morning.

Something over $50 was paid or pledged for the supernumerary preachers.

This will probably be increased by private subscriptions so as to make it equal to any charge in the conference.

NINE days hence and then comes the commencement of the firemen's tug of war at the Quincy state tournament. The Decatur boys consider themselves in fair shape for the contest.

NOAH C. KATLE is on deck again in charge of his one-horse party. His head is still bandaged, but it does not pain

him very much.

GEORGE SHOEMAKER was alive at 2.30

this afternoon, but it is thought he can not live much longer.

GOLDEN HAIR and the Three Bears.

This, the finest juvenile opera in print, will be presented in first-class style

at the Opera House on Friday evening next. The cast of characters cannot be improved upon at home nor abroad, and the choruses by the forest children are charming. This concert will be highly entertaining to children as well as to adults, and all who fail to hear it will long regret it. Admission, 50 cents; gallery, 25 cents. Checks for reserved seats

IMPRESSIVE DOUBLE FUNERAL.

The Court House Crowded With People

to Attend the Obsequies of Ex-Sheriff

Forstmyer and his Son Fred.

Father and Son at Rest, Side by Side, in One

Grave.

THE funeral of the late Ex-Sheriff Martin Forstmyer and his son Fred, took place from the court house on Sunday afternoon at 9 o'clock, in the presence of one of the largest assemblages of people ever seen crowded together in the circuit court rooms. Hundreds of persons were unable to gain admittance to the room because every available space was occupied and they tended their way to Greenwood long before the cortege began to move.

The religious exercises in the court room

were conducted in an impressive manner

by Rev. D. P. Bunn, of the Universalist church, who prefaced his sermon by reading from the DAILY REPUBLICAN of the 18th inst., the announcement of the death of the ex-Sheriff, which also included a full sketch of his life, followed by obituary remarks. The reverend gentleman then selected the following verses from Chapter XV, First Corinthians, and spoke for three quarters of an hour:

"The first man is of the earth, earthy; the second man is the Lord from heaven.

And as we have borne the image of the earth, we shall also bear the image of the heavenly."

Rev. Bunn in the course of his doctrinal discourse, paid a deserved tribute to the memory of the departed father and son, and offered words of tender consolation to the bereaved family. Appropriate music for the sad occasion was furnished by a choir composed of Messrs

Bunn and C. B. Prescott and Mrs. A. W.

Konkila and Miss Jeanette Bowers, with

Mrs. Bunn as organist.

After the religious exercises the people were given a last opportunity of looking upon the faces of the dead, when the funeral cortege formed under the direction of the marshals, First Chief Hewes, F. W.

Wismar and Joseph Mills. The procession moved to the cemetery in the following order:

Fire Chief Hewes and Assistants Wayne and Reppert.

Decatur Fire Department in Uniform,

The Mayor and City Officers,

County Officers,

Juvenile Turners,

Members of Decatur Turn Verein

Hearse Containing Remains of Frederick

Forstmyer, with Wm. Konkila, John Mattheis, Nelson Scherer, Charles Young,

Henry Ammann and Henry Ko-

sick as Pallbearers.

Members of the two Lodges of Odd Fellows,

Hearse Containing the Remains of Martin

Forstmyer, with John Ullrich, Jacob Spengler,

Thomas B. Albert, Joseph G. Tucker,

George H. Hunter and Wm. Downing

as Pallbearers.

Forty-five Carriages and Vehicles Containing

Family and Citizens.

AT THE GRAVE.

The remains of the father and son were laid at rest side by side, in the same grave, the Odd Fellows ceremony attending the burial of Martin

Forstmyer being of the usual beautiful and impressive character. The ceremony concluded with a prayer by Rev. Bunn.

The double funeral was undoubtedly the largest ever witnessed in Decatur,

many of the ex-Sheriff's friends from dif-

"Camp Tupper."

The reunion of the soldiers and sailors of the late war, Mexican and Black Hawk war, to be held at Camp Tupper, Kenney, Ill., Sept. 1st and 2d, will doubtless be quite a success. It is intended to make this a reunion of regiments principally represented in De Witt and adjoining counties, including the 26th, 41st and 107th. Among the

The Irish Highwayman.

An Irishman, finding his cash at low ebb, resolved to adopt "the road" as a professional means of refreshing the exchequer; and, having provided himself with a huge horse-pistol, proceeded forthwith to the conventional "lonely common" and lay in wait. The no less conventional "farmer returning from the market with a bag of money," of course, soon appeared, to whom enter Pat with the regulation highwayman offer of choice, "Your money or your life!"—a remark fortified by the simultaneous exhibition of fire-arm in the usual way. The farmer, who was a Quaker, essayed to temporize. "I would not have these thin thy soul with sin, friend and didst thou rob me of my gold it would be theft; and didst thou kill me, it would be murder. But hold! A bargain is no sin, but a commerce between two honest men. I will give thee this bag of gold for the pistol which thou holdest at my ear." The unsuspecting amateur Macbeth, yielding, perhaps, to the Quaker's logic and solicitude for his spiritual welfare, made the exchange without a moment's hesitation. "Now, friend," cried the wily Ephraim, leveling the weapon "give me back my gold, or I'll blow thy brains out!" "Blaze away, thin, darlint!" said Pat. "Sure there's niver a drop of powder in it!" [Our hat then blew off, and we had to leave.]

It is said that Colonel Ingersoll didn't lose faith in the Bible until after he collided with the story of Naomi marrying when she was 580 years old. He thinks that it is merely a campaign rumor, and it does seem a little off color in this progressive age, when a woman 35 years old can't lasso a man unless she has a plenty of bonds and other valuable collaterals. — Norristown Herald.
